FERREIRA DE SÁ
EACH RUG, A NEW STORY.

FLOORS AREN`T JUST SURFACES.

Ferreira de Sá is one of the oldest and biggest existing companies producing hand-made rugs in Europe, and the only one that masters three different production techniques: the hand-weaving, the hand-knotting and the hand-tufting. Founded in 1946, the company's portfolio includes luxury hotels and store chains, public buildings, museums and many others, in all five continents. Throughout this booklet, some of these will be unveiled, focusing on the projects where hand-tufted carpets have been used. To find out more about Ferreira de Sá, kindly browse through the company's website on www.ferreiradesa.pt.

HAND TUFTING

IF IT CAN BE DRAWN, IT CAN BE TUFTED

In a Hand-tufted rug the yarn is pushed through a backing, creating a tuft. This method of rug making requires a high level of craftsmanship to efficiently and accurately portray the intricate designs.

The tufting method creates a highly durable and beautifully accurate handmade rug that will weather foot traffic for years to come. In this method, the rug can be 9m wide. If a wider rug is requested it is possible to manufacture it with an invisible seam.
